

Cowbridge Lower School Newsletter

It has been a glorious time full of sunshine and fun in Lower School this week.....

It has been all about our fabulous families in Nursery and Reception.

Nursery have been recognising just how important they are in their families and identifying different members of their own family. They made family portraits using loose parts-you all look sensational!

They have continued to explore their body movements and are understanding the need to be kind to everyone

Reception have been thinking about how our families are all different and who is in our wider family such as grandparents, aunties, uncles and cousins. We enjoyed sharing all the fun and wonderful activities you like to do together with our friends. They have also been very busy inventing houses and made amazing models of them...inside and out.

Year 1 have developed their super powers even further this week.....writing their own rescue stories and presenting them to each other. They have begun to think about real-life heroes and what constitutes being a hero. As part of their art work they have been looking at the pop artist Andy Warhol.

Year 2 have been comparing heroes and identifying similarities and differences. They have also written news reports on the bravery and heroism of Betsi Cadwaladr. They have also been thinking about what to do if we have any worries and how to help ourselves and each other.

R, Y1 & Y2 had a fabulous musical treat with Patrick from Cowbridge Music Festival. They used their bodies and instruments to make some wonderful music. Thank you Patrick!

All of Lower School has been busy writing some very special invitations in readiness for a very special celebration next week. We look forward to welcoming our "Someone Special" to school next Friday.
