Happy National Libraries week!

First of all a huge "thank you" to all our special people for braving the rain and helping us to celebrate our "Someone Special" weekend. We couldn't have wished for a better start to our week of library celebrations than sharing a book with someone we love.

This week, the pages have kept on turning! On Monday Ben James from the Vale Library Service came to visit our library. He couldn't believe how much our school had changed since his last visit and was very impressed with our new library space. We were incredibly lucky as he spent the afternoon reading us stories.

On Tuesday, Y1 and Y2 were fortunate enough to be invited to Cowbridge Library for a visit. They had a tour of the library, listened to more stories and took part in story related craft activities.

Nursery and Reception have been looking at non-fiction books and learning that books are not just about stories. They have been reading counting books and learning that books can help us learn all sorts of amazing things.

Having been bitten by the writing bug from last week when they wrote group poems, the budding authors of Reception have continued to fine tune their writing skills, this time writing their very own books! They have written, illustrated and read their own counting books....is there no end to their literary talents?

Continuing their Superhero theme, Year 1's creative juices have been really flowing as their imaginations have gone wild writing their own Superhero rescue stories-they really have committed some death defying feats all in the name of bravery!

Year 2 have been focussing on the genre of instructional writing. Following the results of their science investigation into hand washing last week, they have been writing instructions on the best way to keep our hands as germ free as possible - a very important message to share with everyone.
