It has been a very busy week to end our first Autumn half term. Our value this week has been resilience and we have certainly impressed our teachers with the resilience we have shown settling into our new year groups.

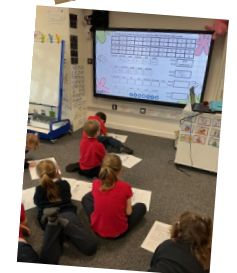

It has been a week full of colourful fun in Nursery as their celebrations of all things orange and brown came to an end. They explored a pumpkin inside and out and used their senses to describe what they could see, feel and smell. They printed pumpkin shapes and made an orange and brown treat to enjoy at their colour party. As well as all this colourful fun they even had time to read "The Little Red Hen" learning more about harvest, kindness and sharing. They also had great fun exploring the movements of the different animals in the story.

Reception have been learning about food from around the world. They read the story "Handa's Surprise" by Eileen Browne. As well as exploring the different fruits, they learnt about ordinal numbers, investigated which fruits floated and which fruits sank but most of all had great fun acting out the story and dancing to African music.

Year 1 have been understanding themselves as superheroes and just why they are so. They have discussed their super skills and exactly which foods are needed to fuel those super qualities. Outside they made an Autumn leaf superhero and used their super maths skills to write number sentences.

Year 2 have concluded their topic on Betsi Cadwaladr by remembering, quizzing and challenging themselves on all they have learnt this term. They have also been looking forward to next term by reflecting on their achievements to date and setting themselves goals for next term's learning-what ambitious capable learners they are!

Friday saw a sensational super human harvest hoe down enjoyed by R, Y1 & Y2 to celebrate the end of a super long half term! Wishing you all a very well deserved break.
