

Cowbridge School Newsletter

This week at Cowbridge School ...

This week, we were incredibly proud to see four of our pupils from Years 8 and 9 represent the school at the UKMT (United Kingdom Mathematics Trust) event held at Olchfa School on Friday. Competing in such a prestigious mathematical arena requires not only sharp analytical skills but also immense composure. They represented Cowbridge with distinction, and we look forward to seeing how these young mathematicians continue to develop their talents.

Venturing further afield, our Geography AS Level students traded the classroom for the coastline, heading to Oxwich Bay, Gower for a field study. The fieldtrip provided a fantastic opportunity for students to step out of the classroom and into the elements. By collecting primary data on coastal processes, they gained hands-on evidence to support their upcoming AS Level examinations. It wasn't just about the data, though —experiencing the physical scale of the environments they've been studying in class brought the subject to life. It was a brilliant day of teamwork and discovery, proving just how valuable practical geography is for developing inquisitive minds. Click on the link on the right to read more about it.

Finally, you will notice a new addition to our communications today. We are launching a weekly newsletter feature titled 'Attendance Matters: Lessons from the World Stage.' This initiative aims to highlight the intrinsic link between consistent attendance and future success by drawing inspiration from global leaders, icons and events. We believe that showing up every day is the first step toward achieving greatness, and we hope these stories inspire our students to value every moment of their education.
