This week at Cowbridge School ...

While every week at Cowbridge School brings its own set of unique achievements, this particular Friday feels especially poignant as we begin to say our formal farewells to two of our most senior year groups.

The highlight of the week was undoubtedly the Year 11 Leavers' Assembly which took place on Tuesday afternoon. It was a privilege to gather as a community to celebrate the incredible journey these students have undertaken over the last five years. Our Year 11 students have shown remarkable resilience and growth, and as they transition into their next phase - whether that be continuing with us in the Sixth Form or pursuing new paths elsewhere - we could not be prouder of the individuals they have become. Simultaneously, the "end of an era" sentiment has been felt strongly within our Year 13 cohort. There was a palpable sense of excitement this afternoon as students gathered together with staff in Scholars to receive their hoodies and yearbooks. Seeing the students together reminiscing about their time at Cowbridge, serves as a powerful reminder of the lifelong friendships and foundations built within the school.

Although the formal goodbyes have begun, we would like to remind parents / carers of students in examination years that lessons are carrying on as per the communication sent out in recent weeks. Exam season is officially underway but staff are still providing much needed support for all students.

Finally, last week, a number of Year 10 students took part in a very exciting ironmongery project - click on the link on the right to read about it.

Have a lovely weekend!
