This week at Cowbridge School ...

Welcome back to the final half-term of the academic year! This week, it has been an absolute pleasure to welcome our rising Year 7 cohorts for their Year 6 familiarisation visits. Transitioning to secondary school is a major milestone, and our hallways have been buzzing with the excitement of these young learners getting to know their future surroundings. Their enthusiasm and curiosity have been wonderful to witness, and we are already looking forward to September.

Meanwhile, as reported before the half-term break, our current students have been busy exploring the world beyond the classroom. Some of our Year 8 pupils embarked on a fantastic trip to the renowned Hay Festival on Friday, 22 May. It was a brilliant opportunity for them to engage with literature, culture, and big ideas. Click on the dedicated link on the right to read more about it.

Finally, we are delighted to share an excellent resource with you. Please take some time to review the attached Revision Guide, which has been expertly produced by Neuroscience for Education. It is important to note that the cognitive strategies covered in this guide are already actively used in our classrooms to support your child's learning. We are sharing this resource so that you can read more about the scientific evidence that has informed our teaching practices. If you wish to gain a deeper understanding of the inner workings of the young person's brain, you may be particularly interested in exploring the reference section at the end of the document.

Have a lovely weekend!
