This week at Cowbridge School ...

What an extraordinary and memorable week it has been here at Cowbridge School. As we navigate the final weeks of the academic year, the British weather has certainly kept us on our toes, bringing record-breaking temperatures that necessitated some significant operational adjustments.

Due to the extreme heat, we had to make the difficult decision to move to a partial school opening this week. We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all of our students who attended school on Wednesday and Thursday. Their exceptional good humour, resilience, and flexibility were truly commendable. They adapted beautifully to the temporary changes, demonstrating the very best of our school and community values. Thank you too, to our parents and carers, for your understanding, patience, and cooperation as we managed these logistical shifts to ensure everyone's safety and wellbeing.

Looking ahead, we are absolutely delighted to be welcoming our incoming Year 7 students for their rearranged Transition Day on Monday, 6 July. We know how important this milestone is for our future pupils, and while the weather disrupted our original plans, we are fully prepared to give them a warm, vibrant, and enthusiastic introduction to school life at Cowbridge School. It is always an exciting day filled with new faces, new experiences, and the beginning of lifelong friendships.

Have a lovely weekend!
